WWW.HUMPHREYBUTLER.COM

After twenty-two years with Christie's and Sotheby's, Humphrey Butler is now established as one of the UK's most successful independent jewellery dealers, advising those who want to acquire or dispose of pieces of all periods, from the late 18th century to the present day.

HUMPHREY BUTLER

A new brochure, a new range of jewellery and a new set of premises. Eight years on from joining the Dickinson Group, I have taken Humphrey Butler Limited fully independent and we are now based in first floor offices in Pall Mall.

For buyers, I have as always tried to present a very broad range of period and contemporary jewellery in terms of both style and price. For vendors, our service has been tailored to benefit both private clients and professional advisers by providing a high level of expertise, discretion and a viable alternative to public auction where sale opportunities are becoming more limited. In addition we offer valuations for current market, insurance and probate purposes, together with impartial advice on related tax planning issues.

We also advise on repair work, cleaning, re-stringing, engraving and the different problems posed by security and storage, while Clare Faulkner is still on hand to provide excellent ideas with regard to re-designing old family jewellery. Equally, we are happy to assist potential buyers by searching for specific items and particular stones.

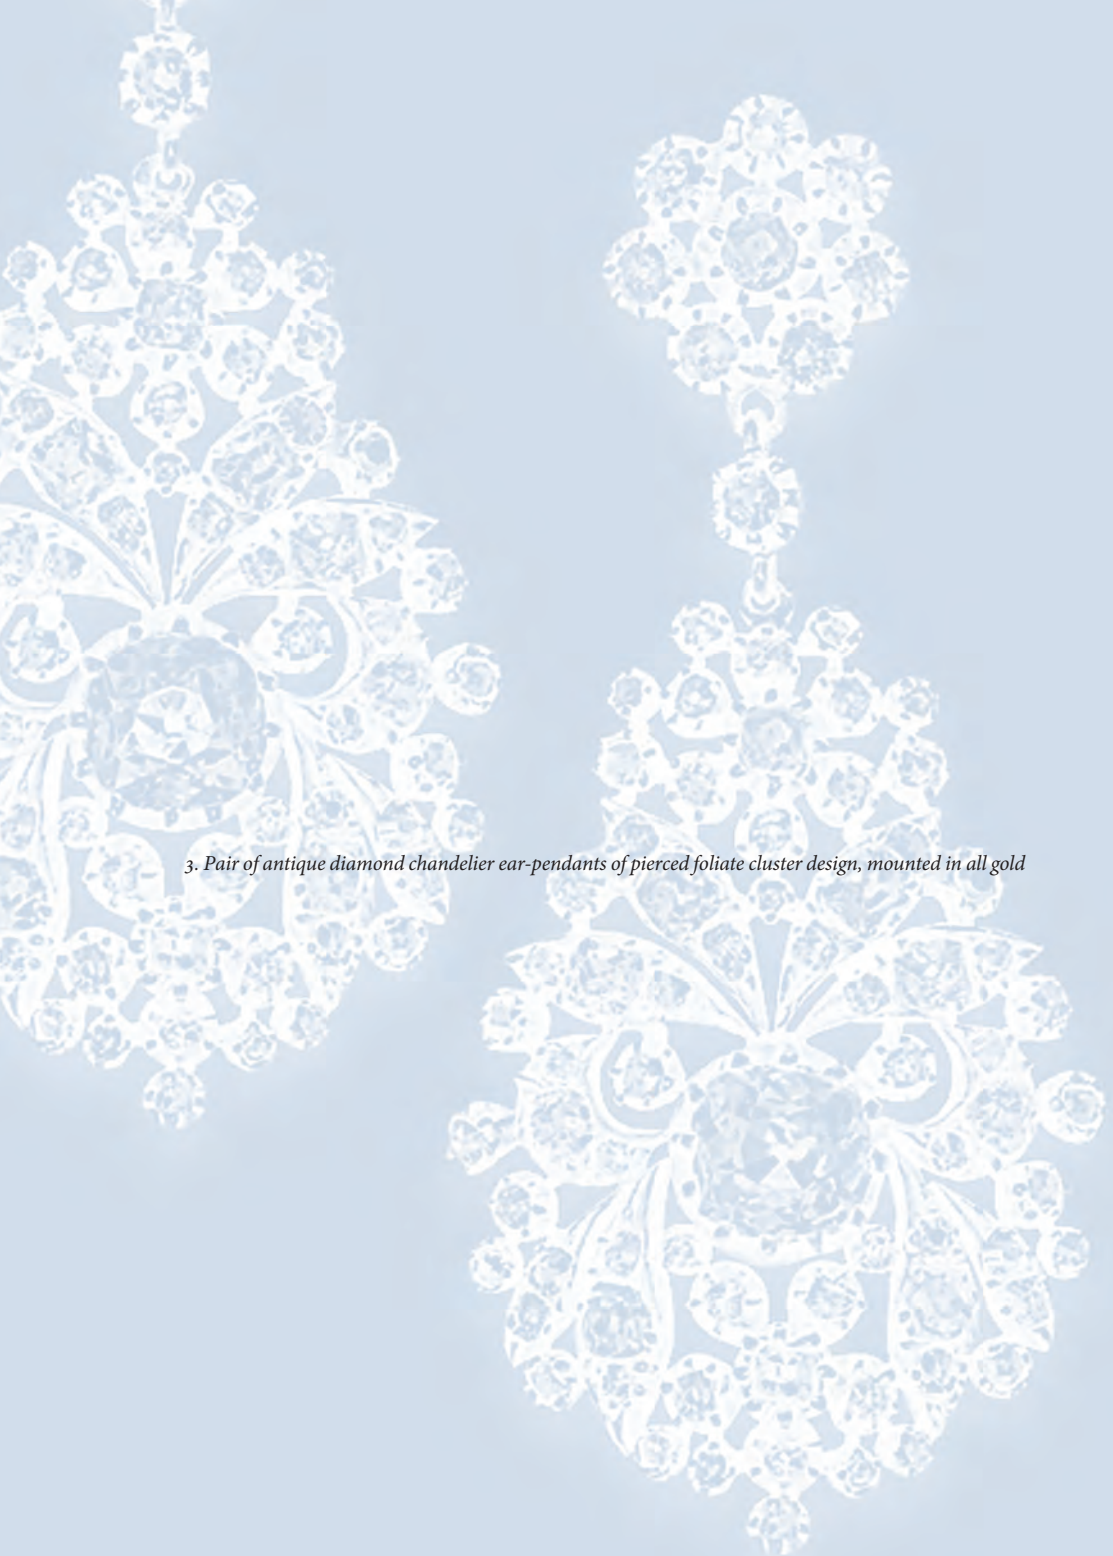

Appointments can be made to view the jewellery which is always on display here in Pall Mall, while a comprehensive catalogue of all the current stock can be found on our website at www.humphreybutler.com. This does not just cover the more extravagant end of the market; we are able to deal with requests at all levels at consistently competitive rates. We provide signet rings, gold chains, penknives, tiepins, a variety of different cufflinks and silverware, and we can nearly always find a solution for those looking for presents to mark any occasion. Whatever you are after, please just ask us. We will do our very best to help.

Watches are featured for the first time by popular demand. I have been asked more and more frequently if we can find chic, classic models on the second hand market and through my friend Malcom Gillan, formerly a director of Hamilton & Inches in Edinburgh, I am now able to find wonderful examples by Audemars Piguet, Patek Philippe, Rolex and many other makers. They are all very competitively priced and come with a full guarantee.

We also have access to an excellent, reliable watchmaker who provides a full repair and maintenance service.

Two years ago we produced a small brochure for a range of more modern jewellery and it proved an instant success.

Colourful, stylish and fun, these pieces incorporate a variety of precious and semi-precious stones and provide an elegant – and fashionably budget-conscious – alternative to the traditional vintage jewellery we deal with.

I make no apology for the preponderance of peridot;
I just happen to love the colour!
